Multidisciplinary artist, works and lives in Israel.

A member of p8 gallery – a cooperative gallery for contemporary art. Graduated with a bachelor's degree in cinematography from Sapir College in Sderot and holds a master's degree in arts policy and theory from Bezalel. Since 2012, she has been working as an artistic designer in the fields of cinema, television, advertisements and stage.

Dror deals with issues related to archiving, collecting, relationships between past and present in relation to the space and the location she works in. Dror creates using photography, video, installations and ready made. Recently she has been examining the historical connection and the local association between the community, the public space and the studio.
